Undefined Head

The Head Center is the empowerment to think through questions, doubts, and confusion. Being a pressure center, it pressures for thinking and seeking inspiration.

Normal (Self)

You are aware that the thoughts and ideas that inspire you often come from outside sources, and you are open to exploring new things and learning the unknown without getting stuck in long and painful reflections. Rather than making decisions from your mind or acting on inspiration alone, you trust your Strategy and Authority to guide you. For instance, if you are faced with a challenging decision, you may take the time to gather information, consider different perspectives, and most importantly - follow your Strategy and Authority to make a confident and informed choice. This approach allows you to make decisions that are in alignment with your values and goals, and can help you avoid acting impulsively or making rash decisions.

Distorted (Not-Self)

You may tend to be inspired by things that have little relevance to your own life, and you may attempt to solve other people's problems without asking for their permission or input, which can complicate your life and the lives of others. This tendency can lead to feelings of anxiety, doubt, and confusion, as well as a preoccupation with other people's questions and problems. It is important to be mindful of this tendency and focus on your own life and goals, rather than trying to solve other people's problems without their consent. By taking care of your own well-being and allowing others to solve their own problems, you can reduce your own anxiety and confusion and improve your relationships.

Defined Ajna

The Ajna Center is about measurement and comparison across time. It processes information from the past, present, and future. The past is abstract, the future is logical, and the present is about knowing.

Normal
(Self)

You enjoy exploring and learning new information that you can easily digest and incorporate into your existing knowledge base. Your specific way of thinking allows you to form well-defined opinions, knowledge, and ideas that can be relied upon by others. For instance, if you are learning about a new topic, you may be able to quickly understand the key concepts and form a clear and concise opinion about it. This ability to learn and think in a focused and reliable manner can be beneficial in many different settings, such as academic or professional environments.

Distorted
(Not-Self)

You tend to make decisions from your mind, based on your opinions, knowledge, and ideas, which can lead to resistance in life and feelings of insecurity and anxiety. In order to avoid these negative outcomes, it is important to let your head be a source of wisdom for others and make your decisions based on you Strategy and Authority.

Defined Throat

Throat Center is all about communication. All energy in the body flows to the Throat to manifest and express itself.

Normal
(Self)

Your consistent voice, expression, and actions are always reliable, as you possess a strong intuition that guides you to know when it is appropriate to speak and when it is best to remain silent. This Center allows you to manifest, metamorphose, and transform in a powerful and effective manner. With a defined Throat Center, you speak with a consistent, fixed energy from whichever energy Center it is connected to. For instance, if your Throat Center is connected to your Root Center, you may speak with a grounded and confident energy. This ability to effectively communicate and express yourself allows you to connect with others and achieve your goals.

Distorted
(Not-Self)

You may have a tendency to talk excessively and engage in conversations without discrimination, which can result in the waste of energy and a loss of focus on what is truly important to you. This tendency can cause you to become scattered and unable to effectively prioritize your time and attention. For instance, you may find yourself engaging in lengthy conversations that are not relevant to your goals or values, which can distract you from your true priorities. It is important to be mindful of this tendency and make a conscious effort to engage in conversations that are aligned with your values and goals, in order to avoid wasting energy and remain focused on what matters most to you.

Undefined G-Center

The Identity (G) Center is about fixed direction, love and consistent behavior. This is where the identity of the self is expressed.

Normal
(Self)

You remain open-minded and adaptable as you move through life, recognizing that the directions and choices available to you may be influenced by the people and circumstances around you. Instead of worrying about who you are and what your purpose is, focus on observing and learning from the people and experiences around you. By recognizing that your Identity is a reflection of others, you can gain a deeper understanding of the world and your place in it. This can help you feel more connected and engaged with those around you, and can provide a sense of direction and meaning in your life. Additionally, it is important to remember that love, purpose, and place are not fixed, but can change and evolve over time. By staying open to new possibilities and experiences, you can continue to grow and develop as an individual.

Distorted
(Not-Self)

You may not fully understand your own identity, always seeking direction, a sense of belonging, and love in life. The constant yearning to find your purpose and place in the world can become all-consuming, leading to obsession and despair. You may try to emulate the lifestyles and behaviors of those around you in an effort to fill the emptiness inside you.

Undefined Solar Plexus

The Solar Plexus Center is the center of emotion. This is where all emotional energy originates.

Normal (Self)

You are calm and empathic, able to subtly sense the emotions of others and allow them to pass through you without becoming overwhelmed. You know how to empathize with the emotions of others without identifying with them or isolating yourself from them. This allows you to support others without losing your own sense of self. You can empathize with both positive and negative emotions, recognizing that they belong to the other person and not to you. Additionally, you know how to present yourself and your truth without fear of conflict. You are able to speak your truth, even if it may not be well-received by others.

Distorted (Not-Self)

You tend to show extreme and violent emotional reactions, acting recklessly and inappropriately, which you often regret later. For example, you may lash out at loved ones or engage in risky behavior when you are upset. Alternatively, you may avoid conflicts by disengaging and refusing to understand the situation, such as by slamming the door and leaving. This approach to managing your emotions can be damaging to your relationships and well-being. Additionally, you may try to lie to yourself and others, pretending to be nice and polite, even when you are feeling upset or angry. This can lead to inauthenticity and a lack of genuine connection with others.

Undefined Heart

The Heart Center is the drive and willpower to do something or to restrain from doing.

Normal
(Self)

You recognize the worth of others and are content with their success. For example, you are happy for a colleague who receives a promotion, even if you were also in the running for the position. You are able to communicate effectively without making promises that you may not be able to keep. You understand that you don't need to prove anything to anyone and that you are valuable just as you are. You don't try to improve yourself out of a belief that something is inherently wrong with you and prefer to focus on self-improvement for personal growth and fulfillment. If you do happen to break an agreement, don't beat yourself up over it. Instead, take responsibility for your actions, learn from the situation, and move forward.

Distorted
(Not-Self)

You struggle with low self-esteem and you may feel the need to constantly prove your worth to yourself and others. However, trying to build self-esteem by making unrealistic promises or pushing yourself too hard in sports or business is not sustainable or healthy. Engaging in constant self-improvement or self-development can also be exhausting and may not address the underlying issue. Instead, focus on recognizing your own value and worth, setting realistic goals, and making positive choices that lead to personal growth and fulfillment. This will help you build a healthier and more sustainable sense of self-esteem.

Defined Root

The Root Center fuels the pressure of adrenaline. Being a pressure center, its pressure moves energy up the chart to fuel action.

Normal (Self)

You have the ability to handle stressful, extreme situations with grace and efficiency. Your powerful adrenaline energy allows you to take on challenges and overcome obstacles. When faced with a deadline, you are able to mobilize your energy and focus your efforts to maximize your productivity. However, it's important to remember not to pressure others or expect them to work at the same pace as you. Everyone has their own unique abilities and limitations, and it's important to respect and support one another in a way that allows for individual growth and success.

Distorted (Not-Self)

If you don't know how to channel your powerful primal energy in a healthy and productive way, you may start to put pressure on others or turn it against yourself. This can lead to negative outcomes, such as depression, sadness, and physical symptoms of stress. Additionally, you may be cruel to those who are not able to handle stress as well as you, causing further harm to your relationships. It's important to recognize that holding pressure in your body without transforming it into action can be detrimental to your physical and mental well-being. Instead, focus on finding healthy outlets for your energy and emotions, such as exercise, creative expression, or therapy, to prevent negative consequences.

Defined Sacral

The Sacral Center is the source of a powerful energy, a life force. This is the engine that fuels hard work and reproductivity in our Chart. This is also the energy that non-Generators need in order to move along their spiritual journey.

Normal (Self)

You possess a strong and dynamic source of energy that drives you to take action and create positive change in your life. This energy can manifest in various ways, such as through your work, hobbies, or personal relationships. When you are able to channel this energy towards a specific goal or task, you experience a sense of satisfaction and fulfillment. Additionally, you may find that topics related to productivity, health, and intimacy are particularly important to you, and you may strive to achieve excellence in these areas. For example, you may be committed to maintaining a healthy and active lifestyle, pursuing a fulfilling career, or building strong and meaningful connections with others. Ultimately, you have the ability to move with the flow of life and adapt to its changing circumstances, allowing you to navigate challenges and opportunities with ease and grace.

Distorted (Not-Self)

When your life energy is not directed in response to your innermost desires and needs, it can become depleted and stagnant. This can happen if you try to force yourself to do something that does not align with your values and passions. As a result, you may experience feelings of weakness, overwhelm, depression, and anger. Additionally, you may find yourself struggling to make progress in your endeavors, as you may feel like you are constantly hitting roadblocks and obstacles. For example, you may start and abandon numerous projects or hobbies without seeing them through to completion. This can be frustrating and disheartening, but by aligning your actions with your true self, you can tap into your inner strength and resilience to overcome these challenges.

Defined Spleen

The Spleen Center is where our instincts are, operating in the Now. It's the oldest awareness center so it's all about survival and existential awareness.

Normal (Self)

Your intuition and strong immune system enable you to navigate challenging situations and manage your fears with ease, providing you with a feeling of security. You take a proactive approach to your health by regularly checking in with yourself and monitoring any changes or potential concerns. Your inner voice serves as a valuable source of guidance, warning you of potential dangers and helping you make informed decisions. Furthermore, your flexibility allows you to adapt to new situations and let go of toxic people or unhealthy habits that may negatively impact your well-being. For instance, if you find yourself in a situation that is causing you distress, you are able to detach from it and move on, rather than continuing to engage in a harmful dynamic.

Distorted (Not-Self)

Ignoring your premonitions and body signals can lead to serious health problems, as well as negative relationships and hopeless situations. When you fail to listen to your inner guidance, you may find yourself stuck in a cycle of fear and unable to let go of unhealthy relationships or processes. For instance, if you have a premonition that a certain situation is not good for you, but you choose to ignore it and proceed anyway, you may end up in a detrimental relationship or job that causes you harm. It is important to trust your instincts and listen to your body's signals in order to avoid these types of negative outcomes.

23 - 43 - Channel of Structuring

A Design Of Individuality (Genius To Freak)

This Channel is about gaining insights then formulating and articulating such mental concepts into words. Here it's important to properly formulate the insights you gain into words, otherwise they might not be understood properly by the others and consequently rejected. Because such insights come suddenly and unpredictably, sharing them in the proper form is crucial so they can be remembered, learned from and later utilized. Working on your ability to express yourself and even learning new languages can facilitate the formulation of your mental concepts into words. It's important that you improve your communication skills - practice speaking in public, properly saying letters and words, using appropriate terminology and language in the corresponding areas, and so on. Sometimes you will have an insight which you terribly miscommunicate, making others consider you a weirdo. Channel 23-43 also tends to sometimes make you hold on to your point of view and dismiss what others have to say. You might often prefer seeing the world through the mental knowing your mind has built rather than changing your point of view when others present you with their ideas. After all, all these concepts your mind has created are for others to learn, so not changing your perspective can trick you into letting your mind do the decision-making process for you rather than following your Strategy and Authority. Because this Channel is Projected, you must practice patience. Because the insights you gain are sudden and unexpected, it's tempting to rush to share them with the rest, but this could backfire if you are not first invited to do so. Rushing to share your ideas will not only make your words unheard, but it could also trick you into miscommunication by using wrong words which will put others off and make them not take you seriously in the future, as well as leave you feeling unrecognized, unappreciated and bitter.

17 - 62 - Channel of Acceptance

A Design Of An Organizational Being

This Channel is about verbally formulating thought processes, hypotheses and opinions based on logic. You know how to express such ideas in a straightforward way, often not knowing when to stop. Talking too much will make those ideas you are trying to project lose credibility. You have the ability to study complex concepts and systems, then explain them in a concise way to others. Therefore people with Channel 17-62 are potentially good mathematicians and engineering teachers or researchers. Your mind is looking for facts and logic everywhere and tries to rationalize them in order to construct a mental picture of the world. Because this Channel is Projected, your hypotheses and opinions can be rejected when not asked for, so you must wait for an invitation before expressing those concepts. The Logic Circuit lacks energy, so Channels in this Circuit need to act when recognized and given the opportunity to do so. You can't just initiate and force an opinion on others, as much as you would like to, without them asking for it. Otherwise they will disregard it and you will end up feeling bitter and unappreciated. You might sometimes also end up having complicated concepts that you are willing to share but others either won't want to hear them or won't understand, which could also make you feel bitter.

34 - 57 - Channel of Power

A Design Of an Archetype

♋ 57.2 ♁ 34.4 ☾ 57.3 ♂ 57.4 ♁ 34.5

This Channel is about intuitive intelligence being empowered. Gate 34's Sacral power gives your Gate 57's Splenic intuition the energy to establish security and certainty in the present moment. This combination provides you with a strong awareness in the now that fortifies your survivalist instincts encoded deep within your genes. You are decisive about what you should do in every moment as long as you pay attention to your Sacral responses. Your aura has the ability to empower people around you with an open Spleen Center and make them feel secure. It's often that people with Channel 34-57 have a partner whose Spleen Center is open and are searching for someone to provide them with security. Many people are feel insecure regarding what to do in certain social settings or even emergency situations. This Channel, with a strong survivalist empowerment, always knowing what needs to be done in the now. Because of Gate 34's life force flowing into your Spleenic Center you may have a stronger immune system. It's important to trust your instincts, follow your Strategy and Authority in every moment, and never let your mind get in the way with its rationalizing or quesitoning that response.

☉ PERSONALITY SUN - Personality Expression/Life Force
TAURUS 21° 36' 56"

Gate of Assimilation - Splitting Apart

23 3 6 4 2
GATE LINE COLOR TONE BASE

Authenticity

- ☉ ▲ The ability to express oneself in a unique and compelling way that captures others' attention without causing harm or offense. For example, giving a speech that is engaging and thought-provoking, but not confrontational.

The Gate of Assimilation is about the proper way and timing to speak and express oneself. Being part of the Throat Center, it's good at expressing itself clearly and is adept at putting mental concepts into words. It knows how and when to share appropriately worded insights in a way the community will understand. Gate 23 aims to bring clarity through words, thus helping others overcome confusion. It knows how to put words and ideas into the right context depending on who they will be shared with.

♋ PERSONALITY EARTH - Grounding/Balance
SCORPIO 21° 36' 56"

Gate of Insight - Breakthrough

43 3 6 4 2
GATE LINE COLOR TONE BASE

Certainty

- ♁ ▲ Being convinced that one's ideas are valuable and sticking to them even in the face of criticism, like an inventor who believes in their invention despite negative feedback.
- ☾ ▼ Giving up on one's own ideas when faced with criticism, which hinders achieving goals. For example, a designer who abandons their original concept because of negative feedback from their client.

The Gate of Insight is the energy of taking knowledge and structuring it according to one's own insight or inner voice. It is a gate of Deafness - it only knows what it's interested in and is not necessarily interested in what others know. Gate 43 wants to understand things by itself, which often happens by gaining insight seemingly out of nowhere. It is the Gate of awareness and knowing; however, it has to wait to be recognized before sharing the insight with others.

♄ PERSONALITY MOON - Driving Force
CAPRICORN 12° 39' 2"

Gate of The Fighter - Opposition

38 4 3 1 5

Analysis

- ♁ ▲ The innate ability to identify and trust valuable allies in times of adversity, like recognizing a trustworthy mentor during a difficult career transition.
- ♂ ▼ Acting in a way that undermines trust, like a politician who makes promises they know they can't keep.

The Gate of The Fighter is all about being stubborn and finding out what is worth struggling for. Being part of the Root Center, it exerts pressure to fight for one's place and to resist outside influences. This Gate is a natural-born warrior and always ready to stand up for its independence. Gate 38 has the pressure to find a purpose in life mostly through struggle and stubbornness.

♋ PERSONALITY NORTHNODE - Future Direction/Environment
CANCER 14° 29' 13"

Gate of The Provocateur - Obstruction

39 6 2 6 3
GATE LINE COLOR TONE BASE

Technician

- ☾ ▲ The hands-on approach and ability to lead by personal example, by finding and implementing solutions to problems and encouraging others to do the same, like a field general who turns the tide of battle through decisive action.
- ♂ ▼ Acting in a way that seeks to boost one's own image or status at the expense of others, like a boss who takes credit for the work of their employees.

The Gate of The Provocateur is the drive to provoke action and to cause an energetic burst so it becomes free from emotional stillness or sadness. It is all about emotional liberation and the provocation of the Spirit and emotions of others. Whether you provoke pain or joy is determined by your mood. This is also the Gate of flirting.

♏ PERSONALITY SOUTHNODE - Past Direction/Environment
CAPRICORN 14° 29' 13"

Gate of The Fighter - Opposition

38 6 2 6 3
GATE LINE COLOR TONE BASE

Error

- ♃ ▲ The persistent drive to advocate for specific causes, despite potential confusion from others, such as an individual who is only passionate about animal rights and not concerned with other social issues.
- ⊕ ▼ Being unwilling to compromise or consider other perspectives, leading to ongoing conflicts and misunderstandings, like a political leader who refuses to negotiate with opposing parties.

The Gate of The Fighter is all about being stubborn and finding out what is worth struggling for. Being part of the Root Center, it exerts pressure to fight for one's place and to resist outside influences. This Gate is a natural-born warrior and always ready to stand up for its independence. Gate 38 has the pressure to find a purpose in life mostly through struggle and stubbornness.

♊ PERSONALITY MERCURY - Communication/Thinking
GEMINI 12° 19' 7"

Gate of Change - Progress

35 2 1 1 2
GATE LINE COLOR TONE BASE

The Muse

- ♀ ▲ The ability to embrace the ebbs and flows of inspiration and understand that progress is a natural process, like an artist who trusts the creative process.
- ☾ ▼ Acting out of fear of stagnation instead of inspiration, leading to unproductive and ineffective actions. For example, a musician who continues to make the same type of music out of fear of trying something new and failing.

The Gate of Change has a hunger for something new. It senses the need for change, needs new things happening, and gets bored if nothing happens. It wants to experience everything there is and it needs other people to experience those things together with. This Gate is all about progress; it knows when a change is close or needed, it senses that the wheel needs to turn, leading to the next step, which might not be logical but is a necessary one. If one jumps into new experiences without following their Strategy and Authority, bad results can follow.

♀ PERSONALITY VENUS - Values/Sociology
ARIES 9° 10' 29"

Gate of Opinions - Following

17 6 4 6 3
GATE LINE COLOR TONE BASE

Benevolence

- ☾ ▲ The ability to recognize the interconnectedness of systems and share valuable perspectives, like understanding how different parts of a system impact one another and offering insights that are beneficial to others.
- ♃ ▼ The belief that once one has understood something, there is nothing left to learn or explore, leading to a lack of curiosity or willingness to learn. For example, refusing to read a book because one thinks they already know everything about the topic.

The Gate of Opinions first utilizes logic, then there is the question, the hypothesis, and opinions about that hypothesis. This Gate is here to offer its opinions about what will work and what will not. Opinions are necessary to find the best and most logical solution, but they are not always welcome as they often feel personal by nature, and this does not mean that the facts are actually correct. Gate 17 sees clearly in the Now and knows how to project details into the future as patterns.

♂ PERSONALITY MARS - Immaturity/Energy Dynamics
LIBRA 0° 23' 6"

Gate of The Determination of the Self - Pushing Upward

46 3 2 4 5
GATE LINE COLOR TONE BASE

Scheme

- ♂ ▼ Acting as if success has already been achieved when it is still uncertain, and alienating others with arrogant behavior, such as acting as if a promotion is guaranteed before it is official.

The Gate of Determination of the Self can always put you in the right place at the right time when you let go of your expectations. It's about the love of the physical body, the flesh, and the perfection of experience – every experience is right, even the unpleasant ones. Gate 46 brings the desire to touch, to care for your body by staying fit, and the joy of living in the physical plane.

♃ PERSONALITY JUPITER - Law/Protection
SCORPIO 3° 23' 37"

Gate of The Game Player - Preponderance of the Great

28 2 3 6 3
GATE LINE COLOR TONE BASE

Dubious Dealings

- ♃ ▼ Recognizing that even making sacrifices and compromising one's values may not lead to achieving one's goals, like a person who stays in a job that doesn't align with their values.

The Gate of the Game Player is always ready to take risks in order to find meaning in life. This Gate's energy is expressed in the struggle to find your divine connection. Being in the Splenic Center, it enables the intuition to know when to fight and when not to fight; this is up to the individual to determine. Gate 28's biggest challenge is to feel alive and give one's life a sense of meaning and purpose. Through struggle, you become wise about the meaning of life. The fear that life has no meaning is always present.

♄ PERSONALITY SATURN - Discipline/The Judge/Restraint
LIBRA 16° 34' 20"

Gate of Intuitive Insight - The Gentle

57 2 4 2 3
GATE LINE COLOR TONE BASE

Purification

☾ ▼ The superficial self-improvement that hides underlying issues, rather than addressing them, like a person who takes a quick-fix diet to lose weight rather than addressing the root causes of their weight gain.

The Gate of Intuitive Insight, being in the Spleen Center, is about intuitive awareness that always ensures survival and well-being. Gate 57 is about being alert and knowing in the Now, driven by fear and trying to sense danger in the near future. This is one of the oldest Gates in the chart, inherited from our ancestors from the distant past. Being attuned to vibrations and sounds, and also being deeply intuitive, Gate 57 can filter out important auditory information needed for survival. It gives access to intuition and knowingness beyond this physical reality.

♃ PERSONALITY URANUS - Unusualness/Chaos and Order/Science
SAGITTARIUS 3° 5' 35"

Gate of Power - The Power of the Great

34 4 1 6 5
GATE LINE COLOR TONE BASE

Conquest

♂ ▼ Acting with the intention of making oneself look powerful, often at the expense of others. This can lead to abuse of power, both as the person exerting the power and as the person on the receiving end.

The Gate of Power is the core of the Sacral Center's energetic potential. It's the busiest and most capable of all 64 Gates. Its huge supply of energy is unconditional and brings power to three other Gates - 57, 20, and 10. Because of the multiple channels it can fuel, it will manifest in different forms - for example, as charisma in the Throat Center through Gate 20. Gate 34 is independent and self-centered and shouldn't feel guilty about it. Having this Gate, one wants to always demonstrate how different they are from others. This hard-working Gate doesn't need outside motivators and can empower itself. It's the energy that non-Generators try to tap into and utilize.

♆ PERSONALITY NEPTUNE - Illusion/Art/Spirituality
SAGITTARIUS 26° 33' 7"

Gate of Ideas - Peace

11 5 2 1 4
GATE LINE COLOR TONE BASE

Benefactor

☾ ▲ Having a commitment to helping others, often motivated by philanthropy or a desire to make the world a better place. For example, regularly volunteering time or resources to support a cause or organization that aligns with one's values.
♀ ▼ Sacrificing one's own needs and desires out of fear of rejection or confrontation, such as giving up personal goals or possessions to avoid potential conflicts with others.

The Gate of Ideas brings together ideas in the formation of a story. It represents sensing energy about abstract ideas and possibilities rather than logic. These ideas do not need to be explicit but are primarily intended to make others think. This is the sorting and piecing of images to create the bigger picture or the story. This Gate utilizes the visual memory of Gate 47. Gate 11 creates mental concepts that come from the Sensing circuit.

PERSONALITY PLUTO - Truth/Transformation/Psychology
LIBRA 24° 49' 36"

Gate of Continuity - Duration

32 5 3 1 3
GATE LINE COLOR TONE BASE

Adaptation

- ☾ ▲ Having a natural ability to adapt and adjust to new situations or circumstances, without struggle or resistance.
- ♂ ▼ Wanting to stand out and be different, even if it means going against the norm, like dyeing your hair a bold color.

The Gate of Continuity, being in the Spleen Center, comes as an instinct to adapt to change and carry on. The drive is to follow socially accepted behavior. Over time, as social behavior changes and becomes the norm, one is able to adapt quickly. It's the Gate of the Status Quo, security, and the Gate of the conservative. This is the conservative investor who invests in long-term stocks for retirement rather than taking short-term risks.

DESIGN SUN - Personality Expression/Life Force
AQUARIUS 23° 36' 56"

Gate of Principles - Revolution

49 6 1 3 1
GATE LINE COLOR TONE BASE

Affinity

- ♁ ▲ The natural drive to inspire and motivate others to join and support a change, like a leader who rallies a team to work towards a common goal.
- ♃ ▼ Refusing to consider existing ideas or perspectives and rejecting the people who hold them, resulting in a lack of support, like a political candidate who dismisses opposing views without engaging in meaningful dialogue.

The Gate of Principles is about establishing principles, rules, and boundaries within a community. When someone doesn't follow those boundaries and principles, they are rejected from the community. This Gate is also the Gate of Revolution, which pushes for revolution and change when an activity or behavior is not in accordance with the established higher principles, or when resources are distributed unjustly within the community. Gate 49 is all about who follows those principles and who does not. This is where revolutions begin against unjust authority. Gate 49's boundaries balance out Gate 19's push for unrestricted access to resources within a community. What Gate 19 says is "We are all one whole within this community..." where 49 adds "...only if one respects the principles and boundaries".

DESIGN EARTH - Grounding/Balance
LEO 23° 36' 56"

Gate of Formulization - Youthful Folly

4 6 1 3 1
GATE LINE COLOR TONE BASE

Patience

- ♁ ▲ The patience and insight to acknowledge when your understanding is not yet complete and to wait for the appropriate time to act or speak, such as avoiding hasty conclusions or decisions before having all the necessary information.
- ♂ ▼ A willingness to bend the truth or deceive others in order to achieve personal gain, even if it means facing the consequences later on. For example, an individual might exaggerate their qualifications on a resume in order to land a job, knowing that they might be caught in the future.

The Gate of Formulization pushes you towards wanting to find an answer to everything - regardless of validity. It is the key aspect in the Logic Circuit and makes science possible by creating hypotheses. The Gate of Formulization is only responsible for asking questions and, when on its own, tries to find answers to those sometimes ridiculous hypotheses. Those answers could be far from valid. Because the aspect of validation is located in other parts of the Logic Circuit, Gate 4 lacks the ability to validate. If the Gate can't understand something, it will come up with a logical reason to reject it. Gate 4, combined with an open Head Center and an Investigator profile, will be under pressure to come up with an answer, sometimes immediately answering a question, often in a foolish or ridiculous way.

Perception

♃ ▲ The ability to think clearly and make sound decisions, like a financial advisor who analyzes market trends and makes wise investments.

The Gate of Intuitive Insight, being in the Spleen Center, is about intuitive awareness that always ensures survival and well-being. Gate 57 is about being alert and knowing in the Now, driven by fear and trying to sense danger in the near future. This is one of the oldest Gates in the chart, inherited from our ancestors from the distant past. Being attuned to vibrations and sounds, and also being deeply intuitive, Gate 57 can filter out important auditory information needed for survival. It gives access to intuition and knowingness beyond this physical reality.

Self-control

♃ ▲ The discipline and endurance to stay focused and persistent in the pursuit of a goal, like a writer who spends years working on a novel.
♃ ▼ Feeling restless and unable to trust that attention to detail will yield positive results, like a chef rushing to plate a dish without properly seasoning it.

The Gate of Detail is about expressing details, labeling, and organizing things and facts. It gives names and categories to everything in a structured way, using statistics and facts rather than intuition. This Gate is practical, gives factual answers, aims for precision, and highlights small details in complex systems and situations. Having this Gate, one is very organized and knows where to find what they need in different scenarios. 62 usually says, "I'm thinking if we should do it like this" or "It makes sense to organize these and put them into such categories." It also loves to experiment, test, and knows how to apply statistics and tools to process and analyze data, making it the Gate of the Software/Data Engineer. Because of its organizational energy, it can turn the stream of thoughts and concepts into structured information. Being in the Throat Center, Gate 62 has a manifesting potential by implementing the opinions of Gate 17 in practical ways.

Inspiring

♃ ▲ The power to inspire and motivate others through authenticity and genuineness, akin to a teacher who ignites passion in their students through their own dedication.
♃ ▼ The belief that any idea or concept is inherently valuable, leading to a lack of critical thinking and a disregard for feasibility, like an entrepreneur who invests all their resources in a doomed venture.

The Gate of Mystery is about seeking to know the unknowable, the "Why" in life and mysticism. This Gate is very attracted to occult knowledge, gains mutative inspiration with potentially lasting impact on others, and has the ability to simply know without using logic. Being in the Head Center, Gate 61 has constant pressure to dig deep into the mysteries of life, such that cannot be known. 61 enjoys the drive to find answers. It's important that people with Gate 61 accept that some things cannot be known.

-  ▼ Showing emotions too openly for temporary gain or attention, like a person who exaggerates their feelings for sympathy or recognition.

The Gate of Contraction is driven by a constant urge to experience new feelings, the impulse to do something new as a way to set oneself free from restricting circumstances. Gate 41 often lives in a 'castle in the clouds' because it's the Gate of fantasy, dreaming, and most importantly - hope. This hope, combined with the Root Center being a pressure Center, gives the pressure to find excitement and the thirst for destiny, which is often experienced as strong unrest. It has the energy of contracting or pulling back. It is an emotional energy of regrouping in preparation for the next expansion.

The Gate of Continuity, being in the Spleen Center, comes as an instinct to adapt to change and carry on. The drive is to follow socially accepted behavior. Over time, as social behavior changes and becomes the norm, one is able to adapt quickly. It's the Gate of the Status Quo, security, and the Gate of the conservative. - ☾ ▼ Abusing power for personal gain, even when it is not necessary or productive. For example, a manager who uses their authority to intimidate and control their employees.

The Gate of Power is the core of the Sacral Center's energetic potential. It's the busiest and most capable of all 64 Gates. Its huge supply of energy is unconditional and brings power to three other Gates - 57, 20, and 10. Because of the multiple channels it can fuel, it will manifest in different forms - for example, as charisma in the Throat Center through Gate 20. Gate 34 is independent and self-centered and shouldn't feel guilty about it. Having this Gate, one wants to always demonstrate how different they are from others. This hard-working Gate doesn't need outside motivators and can empower itself. It's the energy that non-Generators try to tap into and utilize.

- ♀ ▼ Sacrificing one's own needs and desires out of fear of rejection or confrontation, such as giving up personal goals or possessions to avoid potential conflicts with others.

The Gate of Ideas brings together ideas in the formation of a story. It represents sensing energy about abstract ideas and possibilities rather than logic. These ideas do not need to be explicit but are primarily intended to make others think. This is the sorting and piecing of images to create the bigger picture or the story. This Gate utilizes the visual memory of Gate 47. Gate 11 creates mental concepts that come from the Sensing circuit.

- ♀ ▼ Feeling ashamed or embarrassed by one's background, leading to an intense focus on self-improvement and refinement of personal values, for example, a person from a lower-income background working tirelessly to achieve success and overcome their origins.

The Gate of Values is about establishing or challenging values and responsibilities within society. It controls or dictates the rules for the community that aim to keep it cohesive. Being in the Spleen Center, these rules are often survivalist in nature - related to food and provisions. Gate 50 feels deeply responsible for the well-being of the community and often challenges the laws that determine this well-being.

Generator

Every day, you have the opportunity to listen to your inner voice and attune with the energy within your body to guide your actions and decisions. When you do this, you may find that life flows seamlessly and events unfold naturally. The right people may come into your life and opportunities may arise that align with your unique path and goals.

As a Generator type, you have the ability to act on your own and have the energy and drive to achieve what you set out to do. However, patience may be a challenge for you. By listening to the "uhuh" or "unhuh" sounds of your Sacral Center - the source of your power and action - you can learn to wait for a response and avoid feeling stuck. This is true for all Generators, who make up 68% of the population and provide the life force energy that keeps the world moving. The Sacral Center also plays a key role in sexuality and the continuation of our species. By attuning with this energy and listening to your inner voice, you can live a fulfilling and satisfying life.

By learning to respond to life from your gut and trusting in the timing of the universe, you can overcome fear and frustration and experience a profound sense of satisfaction. It may be tempting to initiate action out of fear that nothing will happen if you wait, but this is often just your mind trying to get in the way. However, this fear is unfounded, because the Sacral power within you is like a strong magnet that attracts everything you need when the time is right - whether it's relationships, wealth, or work.

Instead of worrying about the future, it's important to stay present in the now and pay attention to synchronicities - the seemingly random events and opportunities that appear in your life. These may appear to be pure luck, but they are often a sign that the universe is working in your favor and guiding you towards your goals. By attuning with the energy within your body and listening to your inner voice, you can trust in the timing of the universe and live a fulfilling and satisfying life.

As a Generator, you may find yourself involved in projects or committed to people or things that don't hold your interest or bring you satisfaction. This is often because you feel obligated to take on these responsibilities or because you have invested a lot of energy and don't want to back out. However, continuing to do things that don't align with your interests and values can lead to frustration and a feeling of being a slave to others.

To avoid this, it's important to listen to your inner voice and the "yes" or "no" response of your Sacral Center when deciding whether or not to commit to something. A "yes" response may feel like your gut is opening up and pulling you towards the thing you are presented with, while a "no" response may feel like a small contraction, with your gut pulling away from the question. By paying attention to these responses and making decisions that align with your values and interests, you can avoid frustration and maintain your power and autonomy.

If you don't listen to your inner voice and the "yes" or "no" response of your Sacral Center, you may find yourself becoming a slave to others - particularly Projectors and Manifestors who may try to take advantage of your energy and drive. To avoid this, it's important to check your Sacral response before agreeing to do something. Simply say "Let me think about it" and take some time to listen to your gut and make a decision that aligns with your values and interests.

Remember, the life force within you is powerful and has the ability to create and build civilizations. This is why others may want to tap into your energy and why money and other forms of power are often based on this life force. By knowing what and whom to give your energy to, you can maintain your autonomy and power and avoid becoming a slave to others.

Non-Manifesting (Pure) Generators have their Sacral Center defined but have no motor Center (Root, Sacral, Solar Plexus, Heart) connecting to the Throat Center - the center of manifestation. They must not initiate, even though we've been brought up to believe that we must always initiate - to "just do it". Only Manifestors, who account for only 9% of the population, are capable of "just doing it", meaning most of the world's population is living a life out of line with their true design.

To Respond

Since you are a Generator, your Strategy is to respond to life. Even though we've been brought up to believe that we must always initiate - to "just do it", you should listen to your Sacral response, which is in the form of a simple "yes" or "no". This is how you should formulate the question. A "yes" response could be felt as if your gut opens up to embrace and pulls you towards the thing you are presented with. A "no" could be felt like a small contraction, your gut pulling away from the question.

Sacral

Generators and Manifesting Generators are the only ones with Sacral Center Authority, which could be likened to "gut knowing". Ironically, most of us are brought up to believe that the mind is what should make decisions, but in reality every human has a specific Authority center, and it is never the mind.

Here, with Sacral Center Authority, the answers come from your gut without hesitation in the form of deep sounds from the lower abdomen - "uhuh" or "unhuh" - approving of an activity you enjoy or resisting when you sigh heavily while doing something you don't like. You have to listen to your Sacral response to questions, which is always in the form of a simple "yes" or "no", not any more complex than that. This Center always knows what you need to do in every moment, the important thing is to tune in to it and learn how to read it clearly.

You should always formulate the question to take a "yes" or "no" as a response when you ask yourself if you want to do something or involve yourself with a project, especially when the question is serious in nature and has a long term effect. A "yes" response could be felt as if your gut opens up to embrace and pull you towards the thing you are presented with, despite what your mind is saying. A "no" could be felt like a small contraction, your gut pushing away from the question.

There is truth for you in the present moment so you should always know the answer but in case you can't tune into your Sacral Authority when the question is asked, or if there is confusion or hesitation, then for the moment it is always a "No" or "I don't know, will decide later".

If you're a Manifesting Generator with Solar Plexus Authority instead of Sacral, it's still important to try and tune into your Sacral response, although some people with Emotional Authority say they don't feel their Sacral response, because Emotional waves are very strong and cloud their Sacral Authority.

Martyr - Role Model (3/6)

You are here to guide others through the wisdom you have gained by making mistakes. You are a person who, on the one hand, is very idealistic and looks at the world through rose-colored glasses. On the other hand, you are constantly faced with things that don't work, and the world is not such a perfect place as you imagine. There is most likely a lot of pessimism in your life. You are a person who shows how to discover and transform chaos into order and make the world a better place by example, through experimentation and trial and error. Don't be afraid to enter into different experiences, and don't be discouraged when life brings you unexpected surprises. The main question is "What did I learn from this experience?".

The 3rd line could lead to you being judged based on your failures hence the name "Martyr". Consequently and most importantly, don't criticize yourself for your mistakes, but consider them a lesson. You hear the truth and can tell what's real from what's fake. You can't rely on someone else's experience to gain wisdom, but only on the knowledge through your own struggle.

The other line in your Profile, line 6, passes through 3 stages during the course of your life:

- In the first 28 years or until Saturn returns

In this period it behaves similar to line 3 - this makes for two 3 lines in your Profile, which is all that's described above but greatly magnified. In short, your plans won't turn out the way you want them to, you will be exhausted and demotivated from trial and error and things not working out but this stage of your life is critical and needed for your journey.

- Between age 28-50 or during your second Saturn cycle

The 6th line is now reborn, it decides to step away from "the battlefield" of life and start learning through observation of how others experiment. This is the new way you build wisdom and it's much easier than before, but you have more time to internalize what happens and project it upon your past, hand-on experiences.

- From age 50 onwards, during the third Saturn cycle or one Chiron cycle:

This is when line 6 is truly transformed. You are ready to leave your observatory and finally be the role model. Thanks to the trial and error of your younger self and the observations you did between the age 28-50, you have compiled a wealth of wisdom ready to be shared. You might appear to be passive from the outside but in reality you are waiting for that call out to contribute your wisdom for the benefit of yourself and the others.

The difference from 6/3 Profile is in the leading orientation. 6/3 will look more towards the outside world while you will be more inwardly focused. Both profiles have outward and inward orientation and initially will be more inwardly focused in the first stage of their life but turn more outwardly as they mature, especially after they reach their 40s. By that time the experimentation and experience has led to wisdom so trial and error is no longer needed.

Split

There are two separate energetic circuits that operate autonomously from each other while still making up a fixed and consistent whole. You might feel like you have doubts about the way you feel and what you think - "Do I really feel that way?". At times you might feel dualistic and binary, having two personalities that you shift between now and then. You might feel incompleteness or as if something is missing. Your main theme in life is to find someone who connects those two Definitions - "Someone who completes me".

Your Purpose is to channel the energy of individual expression, introducing new and innovative ideas to the collective. Your unique perspective and ideas may initially seem unfamiliar or even strange to others, causing them to react with confusion or resistance. However, you possess an innate ability to persist in expressing your ideas, even in the face of opposition.

Your strength lies in your willingness to repeat and refine your message, allowing others to become more familiar with your ideas over time. Through your continued efforts to articulate your vision, others will begin to see the value in your perspective, leading to a wider acceptance and adoption of your ideas.

A clear example of this energy can be seen in the introduction of new technologies or concepts that initially faced resistance or skepticism but eventually became widely accepted and integrated into everyday life.

Outer Vision

Outer Vision Cognition pertains to a heightened sensitivity to visual aesthetics. This person may place great importance on the appearance of things, such as books, food, and even people. They may be able to make quick judgments based on visual cues, and may be particularly discerning when it comes to what they choose to engage with or consume.

For example, when it comes to books, someone with Outer Vision Cognition may be able to look at the cover and tell whether or not they are interested in reading it. Similarly, when it comes to food, they may be able to tell by its appearance whether or not they want to eat it. The meals have to be visually appealing.

Additionally, this Cognition may extend to the realm of interpersonal relationships. Someone with Outer Vision may be able to look at a person and make a judgment about whether or not they want to get to know them. While it's important not to judge a person solely on their appearance, Outer Vision may allow for a quick read on someone's personality, values, or interests based on visual cues.

Consecutive - Appetite

This is the most ancient and primitive food system. Our ancestors didn't have a specific regime, they ate anything they could find and in any order they would find it. You can easily tolerate long gaps between meals and eat a lot of food at once. The theme of your digestive system is appetite, which means that you should eat whenever you're hungry. You shouldn't try to eat by the hour or follow a schedule. It's correct for you to eat seasonal products growing in your area, simply cooked and ideally without sauces and seasoning. Try to eat simply and observe how your body feels. It's also very natural for your body to be actively engaged in only one thing at a time - it can be difficult for you to start something new without finishing the previous one. Pay attention to what exactly your body loves and how many ingredients a dish or drink is made of. This is the diet where you eat one thing at a time - first eat the rice, then eat the chicken wings.

Wet - Kitchens

This environment is about all sorts of factories and workshops, cafés and canteens, powerful infrastructures in cities and so on. It's not just the kitchen at home, it's any place where there is a very material-oriented process of working on and building something. A kitchen is a place where something is being "cooked", where parts are turned into a whole. You like to receive guests in the kitchen more than others. It's desirable to have a well equipped and comfortable kitchen or perhaps an equipped workshop right in your house. Generally speaking, factories, canteens, cafés and restaurants are suitable as a habitat for you (where business meetings and work can be carried out). The kitchen environment is an interesting one, whether actively participating in it or not, you still feel good while observing how life revolves around you and one thing turns into another (for example, individual products into a whole dish). You are a person with a great focus on the material process of work. You are actively participating in such a kitchen environment - you want to be part of the workprocess and "cook" something yourself. It's also important that your environment is moist (probably a tropical place) - you won't feel as good in a dry setting, hence the name Wet - Kitchens.

Meditation

This Sense resides in the Ajna Center, but moving to the Right variable, so it's no longer linked to survival. This Sense is all about a calm meditative mind as opposed to an active one. It also needs mental stimulation but requires periods of rest so it can go back to revisit the experience. The way you absorb information is you passively, subconsciously take it in during your experience, storing it deep into your subconscious, then later you pull this information to reflect on the experience. In other words it is a relaxed mind, as opposed to an active, focused one. All of this means that you can find the Truth already stored within yourself, close your eyes and meditate on it.

Possibility

You see the possibility (coming from inspiration) in anything. You are a sampler, great for keeping up the spirit and can avoid all the sadness in life. You shouldn't turn things into expectations.

Innocence

Innocence corresponds to the desire to experience life without predefined expectations or goals. This motivation is characterized by a natural curiosity and openness to explore the present moment without judgment or attachment. Individuals with Innocence as their motivation are often more interested in simply being present and aware in each moment, rather than pursuing specific objectives or ambitions. They may have a talent for being objective observers, not easily swayed by their own biases or external influences.

However, this lack of agenda and detachment from outcomes might not make them the most suitable candidates for leadership positions. Their strength lies in their ability to see things as they truly are, without being caught up in the need to control or manipulate circumstances. This can provide valuable insight and perspective, but it may not always translate into proactive decision-making or the ability to drive a team towards a common goal.

PRRDLL

Personality Sun/Earth

The Personality Sun/Earth Variable refers to the distinction between having a Strategic or Receptive mind. People with Strategic mind tend to be analytical, goal-oriented, and planful, while those with Receptive mind are often more intuitive, imaginative, and open-minded.

In our society, there is a tendency to place greater value on strategic thinking, which can make those with receptive minds feel inadequate or undervalued. This can lead to feelings of frustration, self-doubt, and a sense of not belonging.

However, it is important to recognize that both strategic and receptive thinking have their strengths and weaknesses, and that a balance of both can be beneficial in many situations. For example, strategic thinking is often useful in goal-oriented tasks, while receptive thinking can be valuable in creative problem-solving and generating innovative ideas.

Right-oriented arrow means your mind is Passive - it can be described as a cognitive style that is characterized by a calm and reflective approach to problem-solving. It often uses introspection, empathy, and creativity to come up with unique solutions to challenges.

Such minds are skilled at observing and analyzing situations from different angles, allowing them to gain deeper insights into complex problems. They have a knack for finding innovative solutions and often come up with unexpected ideas. They are also skilled at maintaining composure in high-pressure situations and tend to be good at conflict resolution. They tend to be more open and receptive to new ideas. Despite not properly recognized by our modern society, the Passive mind can be a valuable asset in problem-solving and decision-making processes.

Design Sun/Earth

The Design Sun/Earth Variable refers to whether your brain and body are inherently wired to be Active or Passive.

Left-oriented arrow means your brain is Active - it is characterized by high levels of mental activity, which require greater sustenance in the form of food to maintain optimal functioning. Understanding that your brain is of the Active type and that regular meals are essential for peak performance can be immensely beneficial for your overall health, enabling you to plan ahead and avoid skipping meals. Your body needs regular physical activity and work out.

Additionally, your brain's Variable also affects your ability to cope with heat. If you have an Active brain, you are likely to be better equipped to handle higher temperatures than individuals with a Passive brain.

Personality Nodes

The Personality Nodes Variable refers to the distinction between seeing the world in either Focused, or Peripheral way.

Right-oriented arrow means your vision is Peripheral - you have the ability to see the surrounding environment without focusing on any specific object or detail. People with Peripheral vision can observe a wide range of objects and movements around them without having to shift their focus. This allows them to have a greater awareness of their surroundings and react quickly to any potential threats or changes. While Focused vision is great for detailed tasks, Peripheral vision is essential for spatial awareness, situational awareness, and navigation. It helps people avoid obstacles while walking, driving or running, and allows athletes to have better awareness of their opponents' movements during games.

Design Nodes

The Design Nodes Variable relates to whether an individual is predisposed to being an observer or observed. When considering the Tone of this Variable (1,2 and 3 is Left - Active, 4,5 and 6 is Right - Passive), one can determine which environment is most conducive to their overall health, productivity, and enjoyment. Operating in the appropriate environment leads to enhanced mental awareness, optimal longevity, improved well-being, and a greater likelihood of fulfilling one's unique purpose.

Left-oriented arrow means your environment is Active - it is characterized by individuals who are engaged in the external world, actively participating and initiating actions, ideas, and conversations. People with a left-leaning Design Nodes Variable, that is, those with a Tone of 1, 2, or 3, tend to thrive in an active environment.

In such an environment, there is a sense of movement, energy, and excitement. Individuals are encouraged to take risks, challenge themselves and others, and pursue their goals with passion and determination. Collaboration, communication, and innovation are highly valued, and there is a constant exchange of ideas and feedback.

An Active environment is often fast-paced and dynamic, requiring individuals to be adaptable, flexible, and able to think on their feet. It can be highly stimulating, with many opportunities for learning, growth, and development. However, it can also be stressful and demanding, requiring individuals to have a high level of resilience and self-awareness to thrive.

Business

Gate 46 - Coordination

The ability to stabilize a group and turn it into a cohesive, functioning unit is essential for any business. This involves establishing a shared "frequency" or understanding among team members, allowing them to work together towards common goals and achieve success. By fostering collaboration and trust, a business can effectively create a team that can operate smoothly and achieve its desired outcomes. This ability to stabilize the group and create a cohesive unit is a key factor in the success of any business.

Family

Gate 46 - Discovery

The ability to foster a sense of discovery and exploration within a family is essential for its success and well-being. This involves encouraging and supporting individual curiosity and creativity, as well as actively seeking out new experiences and opportunities. By fostering a sense of discovery and exploration, a family can provide a rich and stimulating environment for its members, ultimately leading to growth and fulfillment. This ability to foster discovery and exploration is a key factor in the success and well-being of any family.
